We have exciting news to share with you. Recently, we announced that we have entered into an agreement to acquire the Electronic Security Solutions business from Stanley Black & Decker, Inc. (“Stanley Security”), one of the most recognized electronic security providers worldwide. As one of our most important clients, I would like to update you on what this means.

At Securitas, we would like to help our clients focus on what really matters to them by providing intelligent security solutions and value for money. When we have integrated the Stanley Security business into our existing global structure, we will be able to provide a wider range of leading technology solutions at scale in more countries, delivered by thousands of highly skilled technicians, alongside cutting-edge innovation. By combining global presence and connected technology, and through an intelligent use of data, we will transform the dynamics of the security industry.

Stanley Security has protected their clients with essential systems, equipment, and services for 30 years. They are one of the most recognized electronic security providers worldwide with operations in 12 markets globally and approximately 200 locations and 7 800 Stanley Security employees. Stanley Security has deep expertise in a wide variety of services, including access control, visitor management, detection of weapons and threats, fire detection, real-time location systems, video surveillance, intrusion systems, alarm verification and healthcare solutions. Their network alarm monitoring centers follow industry-leading best practices. Stanley Security also offers a range of next-generation security solutions such as AI remote monitoring, weapon detection systems and gunshot detection systems.

We are confident that the additions that Stanley Security will bring will enable us to serve you even better by expanding the breadth as well as the depth of our services and capabilities, together with comprehensive risk advisor services and seamless delivery.

In Securitas UK once the acquisition is closed, we will welcome the Stanley Security experts in security technology to the Securitas team, which will help us to provide even higher value to you.

Advising you on how to mitigate your security risks is our passion, and we look forward to doing this even better together with the Stanley Security team in due course. The acquisition is subject to approval by the regulatory authorities, and we expect it to be closed in the first half of 2022. Until this time, we will continue to operate entirely independently and thereafter the integration process will start. Please rest assured that our top priority is and always remains providing high quality service to you without disruption.

In due course, I look forward to a continued discussion about your security needs and how we best can support your business success. As always, please don't hesitate to reach out with any questions or concerns.

Shaun Kennedy, Country President, Securitas UK
